Lady Volunteers SOFTBALL MEDIA GUIDE

REVIEW

The 2018 Lady Vols put together another memorable season filled with success, as the team notched 48 wins and a sixth Regional victory in the past seven years. Tennessee came up short to SEC rival Georgia in the Athens Super Regional, with a 2-1 loss on May 26, concluding the season at 48-14. On March 19, after shooting out to a 30-1 start, Tennessee was ranked No. 2 in the USA Today/NFCA Coaches' Poll for the first time since April of 2014.

UT ended the season ranked No. 10 in the nation in both the USA Today/NFCA Poll and the ESPN.com/USA Softball Collegiate Top 25. After beginning the campaign at No. 11 and 12 (respectively) in the preseason rankings, the Lady Vols continued their streak of finishing in the top-20 in both of the national polls to 15 consecutive seasons.

The 2018 season was highlighted by a 22-game win streak from Feb. 17 to Mar. 17. During that streak, Tennessee picked up wins over then-No. 2 Oregon and conference-rival Missouri, while sweeping its schedule at the Mary Nutter Classic in Cathedral City, Calif., the Tennessee Invitational in Knoxville and the Rainbow Wahine Classic in Honolulu, Hawai'i. The Lady Vols also recorded nine shutouts over that streak, scoring 10 runs or more in 10 games during that stretch.

In conference play, Tennessee posted a 14-10 mark and finished fourth in the SEC standings. As a team, UT ranked near the top of multiple major categories in the SEC, including second in batting average (.306) and hits (508), and third in on base percentage (.400), total runs scored (360) and RBIs (315).

2018 also featured prominent individual campaigns for the Lady Vols, with some being more expected than others. After being named the 2017 SEC Player of the Year, senior Meghan Gregg returned for her final year to cement her place among the program's greatest names. Gregg would once again prove to be one of the top offensive talents in the nation, as she hit a team-high 18 home runs and recorded 72 RBIs, which ranked second most in the NCAA. Her greatest feats, however, came in surpassing Tonya Callahan as Tennessee's career-leader in those same categories, each coming just two weeks apart. On March 31, she was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded in a game against Georgia to notch her 242nd RBI in the Orange and White, and on April 13, she launched her 52nd career home run over the left-field wall in a win over LSU to stand alone in Lady Vols' lore.

For the second consecutive season, Gregg earned All-American status with a third team selection. The only Lady Vol to receive first team honors was junior infielder Aubrey Leach. In her third year on Rocky Top, Leach blossomed into one of the nation's most well-rounded players, and set the Tennessee single-season record for runs scored with 80. Her .441 batting average paced the SEC, and she finished second in the conference with 82 total hits and a .565 on base percentage. Leach recorded at least a hit in 18 straight games from Feb. 24 to Mar. 25, and was named to the All-SEC first team at the conclusion of the regular season.

In the circle, sophomore Caylan Arnold led the way for UT throughout the season, notching the third most wins in the SEC with 26. She went a complete seven innings on nine different occasions, including back-to-back wins over Kentucky in which she yielded just one total run. Arnold was named SEC Pitcher of the Week three times in three separate months, including May 1, capping off a stretch of seven consecutive winning decisions.

After wrapping up the regular season by taking two of three in a road series at Mississippi State, the Lady Vols traveled to Columbia, Mo. as the No. 4 seed in the SEC Tournament. UT was able to get past 5th-seeded LSU in the quarterfinal by a score of 1-0, but ran into top-ranked and eventual champion Florida in the semis, dropping a 10-2 decision.

UT went into the NCAA Tournament as the nation's No. 10 overall seed, and was selected to host a Regional for the 14th consecutive season. Tennessee would make quick work of its three opponents at the Knoxville Regional, winning three games by a combined score of 26-4 to advance. In victories over James Madison and Ohio, Arnold went 13 total innings and amassed 15 strikeouts.

The Lady Vols rolled into Athens looking to carry the momentum of the previous weekend to a College World Series berth, but they could not overcome the upstart Bulldogs, who took the first two games of the series, by one run each to end Tennessee's season.
